CUFF LOVE

Ear cuffs are no longer a trend, they're a classic, says Jessica Diamond

FIRST, I'M NOT SAYING that ear cuffs are important right now, but jewellery does have a part to play in our daily routines, in the same way a slick of lipstick or sweep of blush can lift the spirits — although leave off your rings for now, as they can harbour all sorts of nasties that hand-washing can't reach. As for the ear cuffs in this selection, all will make any outfit look a notch above the rest, whether now or later when things are more like normal. Because there is still something so achingly hip about wearing just one earring, and the more unusual and sculptural the shape, the better. I love the loops of gold vermeil or silver by Anne Manns, and KatKim's ear pins that hook over the helix at the top of your ear. And as for Panconesi? When this is over, I will be wearing mostly his pieces. Just one thing: what to do with the other ear? Keep it simple — a gold huggie hoop or simple stud will suffice — because nothing should detract from the main event. ■ @thediamondedit
