RISKS OF VACUUM THERAPY:
Vacuum therapy is easy to use. However, there are some risks associated with vacuum therapy. It is important that you understand these risks.

READ AND UNDERSTAND THE INSTRUCTIONS COMPLETELY (INCLUDING WITHOUT LIMITATION ALL PRECAUTIONS AND WARNINGS) PRIOR TO USING THE FLESHPUMP.

VACUUM THERAPY RISKS & WARNINGS:
Do not use any electrically-powered vacuum pump in or near water.

Severe bruising or damage to your penis may result if you do not wait at least 60 minutes between uses of the FleshPump.

If you use too much vacuum pressure, harm to your penis may result, including without limitation bruising or injury to your penis or scrotum. Apply only the minimum of vacuum pressure necessary to achieve an erection.

It is possible that vacuum therapy may cause a small blood blister on the head of your penis. This is normal and should not be harmful.

Use of the FleshPump may aggravate pre-existing conditions such as priapism (a persistent, generally painful erection as a consequence of disease and not related to sexual arousal), Peyronie’s disease (the formation of hardened tissue in the penis that causes pain, curvature, and/or distortion, usually during an erection), and urethral strictures (an area of hardened tissue, which narrows the urethra sometimes making it difficult to uriniate).

Use of the FleshPump may mask an underlying cause of your impotence. These causes may include: diabetes, multiple sclerosis, chronic kidney failure, cirrhosis of the liver, or alcoholism. You should talk to your physician or medical professional before using this product.

HOW FLESHPUMP™ VACUUM THERAPY WORKS

The FleshPump makes erections more easily attainable by using a vacuum to draw blood into the flaccid penis. Erection is attained and maintained by forming a tight and snug seal at the base of the body, where the penis meets the pubis, to help keep the blood in the shaft. Thanks to the FleshPump’s soft “donut,” this seal stays strong and feels comfortably constricted without being too tight. Results are not immediate and use of the FleshPump requires patience and diligence.

Use of the FleshPump is not intended to replace your doctor’s diagnosis of the underlying cause of your impotence and is not meant to be or marketed as a cure. It is always best to communicate with your doctor should you have concerns about using the FleshPump to aid the effects of erectile dysfunction.

HOW TO USE YOUR FLESHPUMP™

Practice makes perfect – it might take time to get used to the feel and functionality of the FleshPump, so please take time to read affiliated instruction manuals and allow yourself patience to experiment and see how FleshPump can work best with your body.

Practice the technique of creating and maintaining your erection before attempting sexual intercourse with another person.

1. Assure your FleshPump “donut” is clean and free of lint or residue.
2. Lubricate your flaccid penis generously with an oil-based lube such as FleshPump Lubricant.
3. To prevent pulling of pubic hair, lubricate the base of the body or remove pubic hair around the base of the penis.
4. Place your flaccid penis at the opening of the FleshPump “donut.”
5. Press the vacuum button to slowly draw your lubricated flaccid penis into the pump tube. This will help create a snug seal at the base of the body.
6. Keep the pump steady with one hand and use the other to operate the vacuum.
7. As you pump, watch your penis respond to the gradual vacuum pressure and pay attention to how it feels.
8. It is normal for your penis to turn red as a result of blood being drawn into the shaft. Pumping too fast may bruise or cause rupture of the blood vessels below the skin, so please take it slow.
9. If pain or discomfort persists, immediately stop and release the vacuum. Seek medical attention if necessary.
10. For best results, pump in short 5-10 second bursts and then release the suction, similarly to how you might work out muscles at the gym.
11. Average duration of pumping sessions is 3-5 minutes total. You must wait 60 minutes between FleshPump uses.
