The Best Styling Products for Curly Hair, According to the Pros

Curly hair doesn't have to be hard to manage.

By Olivia Wohlner · Mar 31, 2020

Being a curly-haired girl myself, I can confidently say that this hair type is both a blessing and a curse. Through years of dealing with my quirky hair, I've learned a few concrete things: a hairbrush is most-definitely not your friend, no matter how much you want bangs they'll never look as good as Alexa Chung's, and avoid the outdoors at all costs when humidity strikes.

But, when you have a day where your curls finally look good, feeling on top of the world is an understatement. With the help of these products, you can get your hair under curl-trol seven days out of the week.

Bounce Curl Light Creme Gel ($18)

I love when I get my hands on an inexpensive hair product—I constantly find myself running out of my must-haves in a blink and if it doesn't break the bank, I don't stress about it. This one in particular is a blessing because it keeps my curls in tact for days. It's a gel and a cream combined into one and it gives the perfect amount of volume without any weight.

Hortencia Adams, influencer and curly-haired goddess, raves about this product on her blog. She writes: "I use Bounce Curl's gel to define and give my curls the extra hold they need to provide me with 2 and 3 day hair! Embrace your curls people!!!"
