

Aglaonema Silverado

Aglaonema commutatum 'Silverado'

This is an uncommon, but gorgeous Aglaonema cultivar, with silvery-green patterning marking the middle of each large, showy leaf. Aglaonemas, or Chinese Evergreens, are well-known as fantastic "easy-care" or beginner plants, and this is no exception to that rule!

@plantdaddyYQG

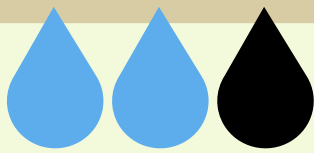

LIGHTING

Aglaonema Silverado can handle practically whatever lighting situation you throw at it -- just remember: bright light encourages faster growth!

WATERING

Aglaonemas can also handle pretty much any watering that doesn't leave its soil waterlogged! They prefer consistent moisture, but are able to dry out too.

HUMIDITY

There may be a pattern here -- because Aglaonema Silverado, while it prefers high humidity, can adapt to anything you need it to!

FUN FACTS

A happy Aglaonema Silverado will flower, which look like small, pointed bulbs. A VERY happy Silverado may push multiple flowers!

