Yarn:	Tools:	Gauge:
1 skein hand-dyed Prism Clicket (500 yards, worsted weight)	#10.5 needles (straight or circular)	Approx. 3 sts = 1 inch in brioche stitch

Worked in a supersoft, hand-dyed cotton, this stylish piece is essentially a one-row pattern. So it's perfect to work on while you're traveling, and also great to wear when flying...if it gets cold in the cabin, you can use your cowl as a mini-blanket!

Directions for pink (grey) versions as follows.

Using #10.5 needles, cast on 32(48) stitches.

Set-up row (worked only once, at the very beginning):

YO, slip 1 purlwise, k1 repeat to end of row.

You now have 48(72) stitches.

Brioche row:

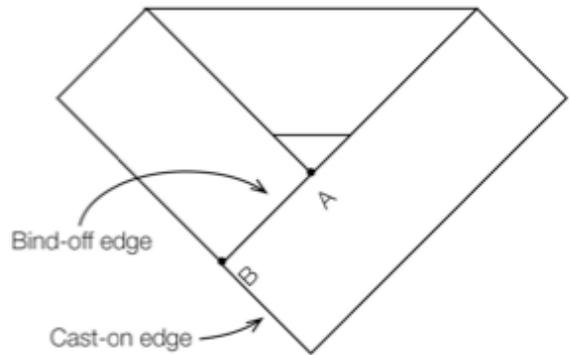

YO, slip 1 purlwise, k2tog repeat to end of row.

Now, just repeat Brioche Row until your piece measures 65" (45") from the cast-on edge. Bind off loosely. Weave in ends. Steam-block using an iron to the following approx. dimensions:
 Pink version: 14" x 58"
 Grey version: 16" x 52" (over for assembly)

Next, arrange your blocked piece as shown (we added a twist to the pink version but not the grey). Line up the bind-off end with the side of your scarf. Seam together from A to B, using your preferred seaming method (we just used a whip stitch). You can control the look of your piece by adding more or less ease to your seam. A wider seam creates a smaller head/shoulder opening.

To wear your finished piece as a cowl, put it over your head with the point in front, then reach behind you and twist the back into a loop, then bring the loop over your head to the front, forming a double-cowl. Voila!
