Mercedes Actros MP4 GSC Curtainside - Eddie Stobart

New 1:76 scale truck tooling continues with the latest Mercedes Actros MP4, which you can look forward to with two cab variations - the GSC and SSC. For our first release we've chosen to bring you the GSC version in Eddie Stobart livery. Registered G62 0ZD, with the signature girls' names above the Mercedes badge on the bonnet - in this case Nic Chick - the tractor unit is decorated in white, grey, black and red with graduated green Stobart shading on the doors and across the front of the bonnet. The interior is black.

The dark green curtainside trailer advertising its Stobart Sustainable Distribution role is also highly decorated across the back doors. On a red chassis with red landing gear, the red skirts have been given a white chevron effect and the trailer is finished with a contrasting silver roof.

Austin Cambridge A60 - Persian Blue/White

The Austin Cambridge A60 was launched in 1961 and ceased production in 1969, during which time over 276,000 were made. Features of this four-door family saloon included rear seating for three people, a 1.6L engine and 3-speed gearbox.

Our 1:76 scale newly tooled version of the 1961 Austin Cambridge A60 is registered AJC 267C from 1965, decorated in bright blue with chrome side stripes featuring a white coloured infill. The interior is black. In real life, the A60 featured reduced tail fins and the body covered a slightly longer wheelbase chassis, all faithfully reproduced on our new model. Bumpers, wheels, and radiator grille are all silver, as are door handles, window surrounds. The black and silver Austin badge is applied to the radiator and the

Ford Cortina Mk III - Noel Edmonds

The Ford Cortina was the most popular UK car throughout the 1970s and 1970 saw the launch of the Mk III which continued in production until 1976.

During the lifetime of the Cortina, as well as its role as a popular family car, it was also adapted for the race and rally sport and for its latest model outing, we have chosen to decorate it as raced by celebrity radio DJ and TV presenter, Noel Edmonds.

With the personalised registration plate WILLMENT of co-driver John Willment, the car is decorated in two-tone red and white with black roof and a black band running along the sides. The interior is also black. Racing as No. 19, printed on the bonnet and front doors, additional graphics include the Motorcraft sponsorship details on the bonnet, the sides of the front

Messerschmitt KR200 Cabrio - Mimosa Yellow

We reviewed the second release of our new 1:18th scale Bubble Car in Issue 187 and we have now scaled the model down to launch it in our 1:76 scale series, where this soft-top or cabriolet version from the 1950s is an exact replica of its 1:18 scale counterpart. It comes decorated in bright Mimosa Yellow with black 'canvas' hood, the interior floor and seating is black with the added detail of silver piping to the seats. The chassis is also black. Access was through a canopy door hinged on the right hand side of the vehicle. The door includes the windshield and window frames which closed over the occupants as a monocoque construction and secured on the left hand side. Attention to detail on our model includes silver knobs and steering wheel while the Mimosa Yellow dashboard has silver rims to the dashboard dials. Registered 171 DPO in the UK, the car was designed to be driven either on the right or the left of the road without any mechanical modifications, all down to its two seater tandem format.

Massey Ferguson 135 - Red

Massey Ferguson is a household name in agricultural circles, originally founded in Newcastle, Ontario in 1847 by Daniel Massey. He initially assembled US manufactured threshers before expanding to produce the company's own agricultural vehicles under the name Massey Ferguson Manufacturing Limited directed by his son Hart Massey. The company is now a subsidiary of AGCO with headquarters in Georgia USA and is still a world leader in farm machinery. The Massey Ferguson 135 was manufactured in the Detroit USA factory between 1965 and 1979 and superseded by the MF35 version. In the first year over 13,000 rolled off the production line.

Our newly tooled 1:76 replica comes in bright red with white roof and exhaust stack and black interior. The heels are red and silver and the engine is coloured a blue grey. Note the Massey Ferguson 135 lettering along the sides above the engine and the Massey Ferguson marque on the front grille. The model will be a favourite for all the many farm model enthusiasts, young and old, for whom tractors hold a life-long fascination.

Thornycroft Nubian - City of Birmingham AFS

The unusual yellow livery on this newly tooled fire appliance will add an interesting dimension to your emergency vehicle line-up. The fine tooling detail is remarkable, as is the high level of different coloured paintwork.

Registered XOG 99J, our first release is modelled on an appliance used by the City of Birmingham Airport Fire Services. The exterior colour scheme is in contrast to the black interior with grey dashboard and black steering wheel.

Transport Equipment Ltd's Thornycroft Nubian Major was first introduced in 1966 as a high performance crash tender chassis carrying increased loads of foam and water supplies delivered by the roof mounted monitor and separate hand lines. Powered by a Cummings V-8 diesel engine the 18 ton vehicle could exceed a speed of

Land Rover Series 1 88" Hard Top - Post Office Telephones

This 1:43 scale replica is the larger version of the model which already features in our 1:76 scale series and will appeal no doubt to both Land Rover enthusiasts and collectors of Post Office vehicles across the ages.

Registered PGO 997, our model operated out of the PO Engineering Dept. CN, 2-12 Gresham Street, London EC2, according to the printing detail on the doors. Decorated in the signature green of the Post Office Telephones at that time, including the wheel hubs, additional decoration includes the Crown reproduced in gold, red, blue and white on the vehicle sides. The distinctive Land Rover Series 1 88" radiator grille is finished in black and silver and incorporates the Land Rover badge, also in black and silver. The vehicle interior is black and the model is finished off with the spare wheel fixed to the top of the bonnet, just like the real thing.

Leyland Royal Tiger Coach - Lough Swilly

The sixth release on our Leyland Royal Tiger carries the proud Irish livery of the recently defunct Lough Swilly Bus Company. The company started originally as the Londonderry & Lough Swilly Railway Company in the 1850s and ventured into bus and road freight transport in 1929. The last railway line closed in 1953 but the successful bus service side of the operation continued until it went into liquidation in April 2014 following a High Court action against Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs. Historically the company had been the last Victorian railway company to survive as a commercial transport enterprise into the 21st Century. The coach was manufactured between 1950-1954 with an underfloor engine on a heavyweight single deck bus or coach chassis. It was used by many of the major bus

Daimler SP250 - Royal Red

We launched the new 1:43 scale Daimler SP250 (Daimler Dart) in Issue 184 with its hood in the upright position. Our second release has a celebrity feel to it, being a replica of TV presenter and motoring journalist Quentin Willson's car. It comes as an open topped version with cherished number plate UGS 5 and is painted a superb gloss red.

Manufactured by the Daimler Company in Coventry between 1959 and 1964, the SP250 was the last car to be launched by Daimler before its parent company sold the marque to Jaguar Cars in 1960. Originally described as a 2 + 2 sports car, it came with a fibreglass body, either a 4-speed manual or 3-speed automatic gearbox and fitted with a 2.5 litre iron-block V-8 140 hp engine.

Our model features a black interior with detailed dashboard instrument panel, automatic transmission gear stick, printed interior door handle and window winder handle and black flooring. The folded hood behind the seats is also black. There is a single driver's side wing mounted mirror. Further attention to authentic detail sees the model with spoked wheel hubs and bumpers with over-riders.

Gloster Gladiator with Skis - FI 19 Fänrik Karlsson, Rovaniemi, 1940

Our latest release on the 1:72 Gloster Gladiator bi-plane fighter commemorates an aircraft that was part of the Swedish Volunteer reserve force that joined the Finnish Air Force in November 1939 following an attack on the country by the Soviet Union. Although Sweden was a neutral country, its government were aware that if the Russians overtook Finland, Sweden was next in line. Between November 1939 and March 1940, the Swedish Air Force reserve flew alongside the Finns and resisted the Russian attack. Swedish volunteer Fänrik (Pilot Officer) Josef Gideon Karlsson was part of the defending force against a Russian attack on the town of Rovaniemi, Lapland on 10th March 1940. Whilst on combat patrol over the town, he surprised six enemy aircraft and attacked, downing one before returning to base with a damaged propeller. He survived the war and died in Stockholm in 1972.

For this release, the Gloster Gladiator comes for the first time with skis, as would have been used on the real-life aircraft. There are two silver coloured skis on each underside of the front fuselage and one under the tail. The aircraft is decorated in a dark green and pale grey camouflage scheme with pale blue underside with white, blue and yellow printed graphics. One of the many fine details on the model sees the two blade propeller being given a wooden effect with yellow propeller cap.

Fowler B6 Showmans Locomotive (Dorset) Supreme

Built 1934, Supreme was the last Fowler showman's road locomotive to be built. It was supplied to Mrs A Deakin of Brynmawr, South Wales, with many special extras 'as new' including chromium plating. After only seven years it was commandeered and used to haul railway locos to Glasgow Docks and later demolition work. Purchased by Jack Wharton in 1958 it was restored over 12 years

(25,000 hours). It was rallied extensively until Jack's death when he bequeathed Supreme to the National Motor Museum, Beaulieu, Hampshire. No longer required by them, Beaulieu offered it to John Wharton in December 2002. Major boiler work was recently undertaken and it is currently presented in her wartime guise. Supreme will eventually return to her original showman's glory. Owned by John Wharton, Minster Lovell, Witney, Oxon.

This is a new division within Oxford which is handling the manufacture of 1:76 scale railway related products.

These wagons are based on the standard 12 Ton Mineral wagon. Designed to RCH specifications (Railway Clearing House) these wagons had a universal length of 16'6" with a width of 8'0" and wheelbase of

Our newly tooled Ford Transit Mk I is a replica of the van which Ford of Europe started manufacturing in 1965. The fact that the marque has remained a leading Ford model, evolving over the years is testament to its popularity and longevity with over eight million sales to date.

Registered GYH 194D from 1966, our model features the long wheelbase, widened wheel arches and rear double doors of its real-life counterpart. Contrasting black has been applied to the chassis, window surrounds, radiator and radiator slots, interior and the steering wheel. The wheels are also white with silver hub caps. Door handles and the wing mirrors mounted on the front of the bonnet are also silver while the bumpers are finished in chrome.

The third generation of the Ford Transit was manufactured/assembled between 1986 and 2003. It was a completely new shape and came in various styles from 3/4 door van, 4-door minibus, 4-door crew cab or even a 2-door pickup.

Our newly tooled model is registered H866 ELP from 1990 and we've chosen to replicate the long wheelbase model. Painted in all-over white with contrasting black window surrounds, bumpers, grilles, door handles and side trim, the interior is pale grey with black steering wheel. The Ford badge is printed in blue on the front of the bonnet and the Transit Ford lettering is also printed across the lower part of the back doors.

AR114 Guy Album: Guy was one of the great names in British commercial vehicle history. Few enthusiasts today realise that in the 1920s Guy also made cars. The firm aimed to offer all kinds of road vehicles, cars, buses and lorries, all built to high standards. All Guy vehicles were essentially handmade, inspiring loyalty among Guy owners as well as among the dedicated staff in Wolverhampton. In this publication we tell the story of Guy Motors, from its optimistic birth before the Great War, to its slow death under British Leyland ownership.
