About Our Boxes

Eco-friendly and Handmade

Our gift boxes are handcrafted by Nepali artisans using traditional techniques passed down through generations.

The eco-friendly Nepali Lokta paper used in these boxes is sustainably harvested from the bark of the Lokta bush, which grows abundantly in the Himalayan region.

By offering these gift boxes, you can support ethical and sustainable practices and promote the beauty of Nepali craftsmanship.

Meaningful & Mindful Gifts

Choose from over a dozen original, handmade, and spiritually conscious gifts to place in your unique gift box.

Not only can you mix and match what goes into your gift box, but you can enhance the box further by having the entire box blessed by Tibetan Buddhist monks at Swayambhu temple in Kathmandu. If you choose this option, you will receive a video of the blessing process. (Add $3 per box as a donation to the monastery. Blessing video and explanation card included)

Need a custom design? Let us know exactly what you want to create and we'll be happy to design a sample.

What customers are saying?

"I was so impressed when Backpack Buddha sent us samples. It was exactly what we were hoping for. The entire process was so simple. We just gave them an idea of what we wanted and they did the rest. We plan to give these gift boxes to our Hyatt club members. The lokta paper has a beautiful texture and earthy tones, and feels sturdy & well made. Thank you for creating such a memorable gift box."

-Sudhika, Marketing Director @ Hyatt Regency Kathmandu
