Welcome to the Helping Animals At Risk jewelry universe

We launched the Helping Animals At Risk on-line store back in 2015 with one goal in mind:

To offer our customers gorgeous and affordable jewelry centered around endangered animal species, while at the same time devoting part of the profits to helping animal protection charities and NPOs.

Of course, all our pieces are manufactured following an environmental-friendly process and don't contain any heavy metals like lead, nickel or cadmium.

In the coming pages we present the items that make up our catalog, but here are some common specifications to all of them:
