Touchmark Collection

from Beehive Handmade

Rooted in the utilitarian and elegant tradition of historical New England pewter, each piece in our new collection of personalized giftware is crafted to be a modern heirloom and a unique celebration of your story.

We've developed a distinctive engraving style specific to each piece for a harmonious pairing of lettering and form. The warmth and satiny sheen of pewter has a timeless quality that we think is perfect for a lifetime of use and for commemorating life's milestones and special occasions.

Each piece is handmade in Rhode Island by the skilled and hard-working folks at the Beehive Handmade studio.

About Beehive Handmade

We started Beehive Handmade as a couple of jewelers who wanted to make useful, everyday objects that would also bring joy. We've always believed that functional things should be beautiful, and that traditional crafts can be used in modern ways and not just remain stuck in the history books.

So, in 1999 we rescued a bunch of antique sheet-metal tools from a factory auction and created a collection of handmade metal housewares; we made the kinds of pieces we would want to use in our home to make it a more warm and beautiful place. Since that time our small team of artisans has been keeping the craft of fine metalworking alive in our New England studio producing housewares, kitchenware and gifts that are happy, meaningful and built to last.
