

Resource 27: Typical layout of a young pupil's classroom

Young pupils' classrooms in our schools look something like this. The teacher's desk is in one corner. The pupils are seated at tables spread around the room. There are colourful display boards on the walls. There is a piece of carpet where pupils gather to talk together in a group with the teacher. There are racks of books on the walls. There is a computer in the corner of the room.
