Thinking of You

Honey Bear peeked outside as the morning sun appeared.

She smiled with delight
when she heard buzzing in her ear.

Honey Bee landed on her shoulder with something sweet to say.
"You're a great friend, Honey Bear.
Happy Valentine's Day!"

Honey Bear closed her eyes.
The day had finally come!
She had butterflies in her stomach.
Her heart was beating like a drum.

Knock, knock, knock! Honey Bear heard, rushing to the door.
"Hi there!" exclaimed Unicorn.
"Want to play and explore?"

With hopeful friends by her side,
Uni let out an excited cry.
"You must come along, dear Honey Bear. We have a new game to try!"

Although she wanted to play, Honey
Bear had much to do.
She had plans to make special cards for all the kins she knew.

"I would love to play with you,"
Honey Bear replied,
"but I'm working on a big surprise,
so for now, I'll stay inside."

"Okay!" said the kins excitedly.

"Surprises are so much fun!"

They waved goodbye and skipped away. They'd see her when she was done.

Honey Bear headed back inside
to come up with a plan.
This would be the year she made her valentines by hand!

She wanted each and every card to be magical and grand.
But when she made them look the same, they just felt dull and bland.

She wanted to shine her special light with all the cards she made.
She'd let her friends feel her love with every card she gave.

"How will these cards be special?"
Honey Bear asked her mom.
"I want my friends to feel my love.
Our friendship is so strong!"

"Just ask yourself these questions:
What makes my friends so great?
What are their favorite things?
What would they appreciate?"

The inspiration came to her as she thought of her friends with pride. "I'll put all my love into the cards, and they'll light up inside."

Her hands began to move quickly as she wrote each friend's name. After adding thoughtful details, no two cards were the same.

When everything was finished and the time had finally arrived, Honey Bear could not contain the joy she felt inside.

She filled her special bag with the cards she made with care. Next, she headed out the door, breathing in the fresh, cool air.

Outside the birds were chirping happy morning songs. Love Bugs fluttered in the air, as Honey Bear strolled along.

She first walked up to Lion, who was basking in the sun.

"Hello, my friend. A card for you!" she said, sharing the very first one.

"Thank you for this special card! Hey, it looks just like me. It has a wild mane and fluffy tail. I'm as happy as can be."

As Lion opened up the card, magic light burst in the air, blowing back his lion mane and filling him with care.

Honey Bear grabbed her bag and skipped to the apple tree. There up high, in a hive, lived her best friend, Honey Bee.

She reached out her paw with a tiny, bee-sized note and waited for her friend to read everything she wrote:

"I'm so grateful you're my friend my favorite Honey Bee. You're sweeter than all the honey and you're always there for me."

The little bee took in the words as she flew down from up above. The magic light came from the card and filled her heart with love.

She said farewell to Honey Bee and headed toward the river. Otter was by the shore, and her card was next to deliver.

She skipped up to Otter, who was relaxing in the sun. Her friend popped up and gave a squeal, "A handmade card? How fun!"

"I'm so grateful you're my friend! There's no Otter friend like you. You're as magical as a mermaid in a sea of ocean blue."

Otter held the note so tight. It filled her up with glee. The love turned her a shade of pink for all the world to see.

Just then from the river bank came a creature with a waddle.
She couldn't believe her luck:
It was her good friend Axolotl!

She had made a card just in case
she saw her friend today.
She reached inside and took it out with the words she had to say:

"Although I don't see you often,
you're always kind to me.
Your smile brightens every day.
My friend you'll always be."

Axolotl jumped with joy.
"Thank you for this thoughtful gift.
Your kindness is a treasure.
My spirits you did uplift."

She continued down the path, joyfully skipping along,
but stopped when she heard a sound:
It was one of Bigfoot's songs!

"Hello, my musical friend!
I have a song for you.
I hope it makes you smile.
Each word I wrote is true."

My loveable friend Bigfoot,
we always have so much fun!
I love to sing and play with you until the day is done.

Love notes floated from the card,
turning him a shade of red.
He felt so loved and laughed aloud with every word she'd said.

Next were Unicorn and Hedgehog, who were playing in the yard.
"Oh, this is great," she thought,
"I can give them each their cards!"

As the two friends held their cards, rainbow light filled the air.
Honey Bear shared her love, shining gratitude everywhere.

I'm so grateful for you, Unicorn!
Like a rainbow in the sky,
you are my brightest friend,
creative in all you try.

Hedgehog, you are so sweet!
Your heart has only love.
A friend who cares,
your always there.

After a long but exciting journey,
Honey Bear felt grateful for the day.
She was glad that she could celebrate each friend in a unique way.

When writing those special cards,
she shared a love so strong.
Treating our friends with kindness lets them know that they belong.

Back at home, Honey Bear told her mom about the day.
She was filled with gratitude
when her mom turned to her to say:

Honey Bear made one more card
and placed it on the shelf.
It was a special reminder, just for her,
to always love herself.

"Making and giving thoughtful cards
is such a nice thing to do.
It's a way to show your love for those who care for you."

Repeat after me these words that inspire.
They remind us to care for the friends we admire.

My heart is full of love.
I am grateful for my friends.
To show how much I care,
I take time to think of them.
