

DATA SCIENTIST

What type of breed are we looking for?

Do you go to sleep dreaming numbers and wake up excited about a new approach to find that little data nugget you've been looking for?

If so, we have the perfect opportunity for you to help drive growth at Edgard & Cooper! The right candidate will have plenty of opportunities to drive the use of data at Edgard & Cooper forward and move into a managerial position.

What will be in your bowl?

Edgard & Cooper products are available in (online) retail and through our own webshop and we're growing at a very fast pace. As such, it has become increasingly challenging to keep up with the velocity and volume of data we are generating, let alone make sense of it. We need this person to collect, organize and analyze data to help the business to make the best decisions possible.
