Above my head, the stars do shine;
Each star is like a flame.
And one is mine, that o'er me shone
When to this earth I came.

Upon this earth, my step is firm;
The stones are 'neath my feet.
I see the birds, beasts and flowers,
And loving people greet.

And every year, the day returns
When my star it shineth bright.
And I receive within my heart
The glory of its light.
