

Honor The Love

Today we honor the love of two wonderful people, who today are vowing their lives together for everyday yet to come.

Do you _____ take this person to be your life partner, through the good times and bad, through sickness and health, till death do you part?

And, do you _____ take this person to be your life partner, through the good times and bad, through sickness and health, till death do you part?

Do you have rings?

_____, please place your ring onto his/her finger and repeat after me...

_____, take this ring as a reminder of my love,
As a symbol of my commitment
And as a token of today.

_____, you may now place your ring onto his/her finger and repeat these same words...

_____, take this ring as a reminder of my love,
As a symbol of my commitment
And as a token of today.

I pray that your love prospers, and strives. That you continue to grow together, and support one another. And most importantly always remember the love you feel in this moment.

It was with my great pleasure that I now pronounce you Mr/s & Mr/s _____.

Congratulations! You may kiss.