

10 Gel-Based Moisturizers Every Combo Skin Type Needs

Make Succulent Skin Gel $25

I got my hands on this product after it launched last year but didn't start using it regularly until recently—already, I am smitten. First of all, I love that it comes in a convenient tube, which not only feels more hygienic but also protects the product better than a jar. I'm also in love with how cooling and invigorating the product feels thanks to the antioxidant-rich cactus amino acids in the formula. I got a little sunburn on my face the other week, and this was my lifesaver. Better yet, it's only $25 for a whopping 3.5 ounces, and 10% of every purchase is donated to the We See Beauty Foundation, which, according to Make's website, is "a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting women-led, worker-owned businesses in at-need communities."
