February 6, 2016

If you buy one product this Winter, make it an all-purpose beauty balm. Here's why: you can seriously use these multifunctional, high-end versions of Vaseline (because let's call a spade a spade here, people) anywhere. Massage them onto your face as a makeup remover (and then take it off with a muslin cloth if you want to get fancy), dab it wherever you need more moisture (from your forehead to your feet), rub it on cuticles as a salve, use it to tame your brows, give your cheekbones a glossy sheen, cure chapped lips, mend split ends, and more. Plus, once temperatures drop, you'll be happy to have something seriously hydrating on hand. To make the shopping experience easier, we rounded up some of our favorite all-purpose balms on the market.
