

OVERVIEW MOVING

Let's get you moved... and in an organized fashion of course!

If you need to rent a moving truck or storage container be sure to do so 3-4 weeks in advance, especially if it's prime moving season (i.e. summer/weekends). If you plan to have a POD or storage container delivered for moving day, go ahead and schedule the pickup date as well. Companies typically need at least a weeks notice for pickup.

Whether you are hiring movers or having a few friends help out (all hands on deck), we recommend assigning each room a color and labeling your boxes accordingly (i.e. yellow - kitchen, green - master bedroom, etc). Colored index cards are great for this! Provide the movers with a color coded layout of your new home and also go ahead and tape a sign at each room. Yes, we totally just saved you a headache, and time! This way the movers will know where every box/item goes and you get to keep your sanity!

It's always nice to have bottled water and snacks for whomever is helping you move. Nobody likes to move, but if your friends and family love you enough to help out, make sure you feed them! Pizza and beer goes a long way to keeping everyone happy! #willworkforfood

If you own any pets it might be a good idea to take them to a friends (or Grandmas) house for the day to avoid them the headache and chaos that will unfold.

Schedule a massage for the next day... you might be a little sore. And remind yourself to never move again!

Rock it out and welcome home!!!
