

4 Legged Leadership Talking Points

“Research shows that by the time a child reaches his/her pre-teen years, parental influence rapidly diminishes while peer influence increases. If we want our children to be tomorrow's leaders, we must introduce, discuss and model leadership skills for them today. From Underdog to Wonderdog is an excellent tool for parents, teachers, and children to address this topic together during early, formative years.” Dr. Linda Miles, PhD, Marriage and Family Therapist, author, and media personality

Since 2011, Tracey and her pups of publishing have delivered their hound wisdom programs to thousands of students and future leaders. She has been an integral part of Read Across America in local schools for the past five years and has been asked to appear for the second year in a row at the Buck-a-Book Literacy Event in Carlisle, PA. Last year, an estimated 1 out of 4 elementary school students in our area attended. Ms. Jones also served on the board of the Amelia Given Free Library where she shared her passion for childhood literacy and promoting an early love of learning. Ms. Jones has also been featured numerous times with her best smelling pawthors on Good Day PA.

Contact her team to see which of her youth programs from pre-school to 5th grade can serve the needs and interests of your students.

Basic Obedience Skills: the importance of following the rules and respecting authority

Self-Esteem: We are all uniquely and wonderfully made.

Financial Literacy: Learning about saving, earning, entrepreneurship and delayed gratification.

Leadership Principles: Thankfulness, kindness, work ethic, dealing with bullies, continuous learning and future aspirations.
