Material Library

Fabric Library

All of our fabrics are domestically sourced from different parts of the country.
We can customize your upholstery requirements from our range of fabric options:

Wood stain finishes

Our solid wood is carefully/consciously sourced and selected by our experts from different places in the country through our vast network. We use white ash wood for all our products. For our live edge pieces, we use Rein tree or Monkey pod. All the live-edge timber that is used comes from road developments, estate developments. Usually it's from a vicinity of 200-300 kms from Goa or Mumbai.

We use Rubio Monocoat polish for all product finishes. It a natural oil based finish with zero VOC. It reduces the carbon footprint that it emits after production and we are highly conscious of what impact we create on our environment as well as our customers. This polish is also spot repairable, hence increasing the quality and the life of the product.

Coloured wood stain finishes

*The coloured wood stains are only applicable for select pieces from the catalog
