

Sometimes I feel nervous, especially today. It's my first time confessing, and so I pray that God will help me to know my heart, the ways that I've failed or fallen apart.

The times I've been selfish, or been so unkind, through Reconciliation I know I will find God's arms open wide. I want to repent, and so I approach this great Sacrament. I've practiced the prayers, reflected, prepared; I'm pretty excited, but still a bit scared.
