

TURN YOUR MOOD BOARD

INTO A CREATIVE PLANNING POWER HOUSE

Welcome Friend,

Here is a list of my favorite places to find and source materials for your mood board making.

Most of the sites listed have free or budget friendly open access images that can be downloaded and printed.

Other materials are from everyday paper like packing paper, free catalogues from brands, or thrifted.

I keep a stash of supplies on hand when I find them for reasonable prices.

xo-Michele

My Favorite Places to Find Images & Creative Fodder for Mood Boards

- Unsplash.com
- Picryl.com: Public domain database
- Canva.com
- Pixabay.com
- Pexels.com
- Wikimedia Commons
- National Gallery of Art Open Access Images
- The Met Open Access
- Other CC0 image databases and archives
- My own photos
- Higher end brand paper catalogues
- Thrifted Magazines
- Thrifted art books
- Packing paper
- Textured paper
- Washi tape and stickers
- Calendars and planner images
- Acrylic paint skins
- Watercolor/art supply swatches
- Magazines about decor, art, creativity
- Old paintings of my own
- Ribbon
- Fabric swatches
- Sewing trims
- Paper from old books
- Old greeting cards
- Maps
- Gelliplate printed papers
- Collage fodder and vintage ephemera lots on Ebay or Etsy
- Old sewing patterns
- Scrapbooking paper