

Handy Dandy Worksheet

When it comes to helping you DIY wedding flowers, we are completely HONORED to take the front seat and guide you Amy-Poehler-Mean-Girls style! Heck, we'll probably even get so excited we'll throw our bra on stage (SPOILER ALERT: they are unsexy and flesh-toned.)

This clever worksheet will organize your flower needs and your thoughts.
Trust the process. Print and fill this out!

Step 1: Make a list of errthang you need and how many:

Bridal Bouquet: # _____	Centerpieces: _____
Bridesmaids: # _____	5-6" Vase: _____
Bouts: # _____	3-4" Vase (Mason Jar Size): _____
Corsages: # _____	Bud Vases: _____
Flower Crowns/Combs: # _____	Loose Greenery on Tables: _____
Pergola or Arch? _____	How many rectangular tables, how long? _____
Do you want it covered, or just a few clusters of flowers? _____	How many round tables? _____
_____	Will you want flowers tucked-in the greenery? _____
Large Ceremony Urns: _____	_____

Step 2: Reflect on your Pinterest board or inspo pics: what colors do you see within the flowers themselves (i.e. ignore ribbon, dresses, tablecloths, and other non-flower colors)? Jot down your flower color palette:

MAIN FLOWER COLOR PALETTE	ANY ACCENT COLORS?	GREENERY SHADES? (sage, silver, deep greens?)
----------------------------------	---------------------------	--

Step 3: Any must-have flowers? List'em here:

Step 4: Circle the style you're most drawn to:

Rounded and symmetrical

Slightly rounded, with more of a
hand-picked feel

Organic,
asymmetrical, wild
and flowing

YOU DID IT! See, that wasn't so hard! Now figure your budget, take a gander at our collections, or reach out! THIS GAME IS SO AFOOT!
