A large, horizontal pendant light fixture with a long, thin, rectangular metal canopy at the top. Two chains hang from the canopy, supporting a wide, cylindrical arrangement of numerous clear, faceted crystal prisms. The prisms are arranged in a dense, overlapping pattern, creating a shimmering effect. The light fixture is shown against a light gray background.

Column (to 'to nri) stands at the junction between the materiality of the object and the immateriality of desire, creating an electric atmosphere. Refined products that are both solidly grounded in reality and open to uncharted horizons of imagination. Each Column product is a messenger from a place where the users had never been, but where they long to return.
