To show your kettle maximum love

Clean regularly with a sponge or brush. Dry thoroughly.

Don't leave traces of oil or salt on the surface of the kettle - they cause rust!

Try to avoid leaving in contact with other steel or aluminium products - it can cause corrosion to develop.

If you see any rust developing apply some scouring compound cream with a sponge or brush. Rinse thoroughly and dry.

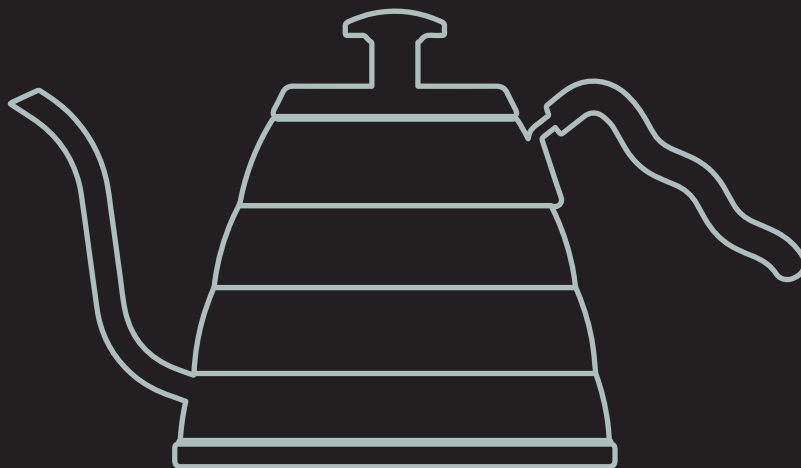

Don't be worried by white spots developing on your kettle - these are caused by calcium and magnesium deposits from your tap water. They are not harmful to your health.

The kettle is NOT suitable for use in dishwashers.
