When shopping for hair products, it's best to avoid those that contain parabens, sulfates and phthalates as these harmful chemicals can lead to the development of serious illnesses. We are aware that going for traditional products is the easiest (and often cheapest), but if you're seeking for alternative options that won't damage your hair and health, we have rounded up the best natural hair products for you!

SHAMPOOS

 Keep in mind that different natural ingredients provide different benefits, so read the labels carefully and choose according to your needs. For example, tea tree oil is good for the treatment of dandruff and other scalp irritations; aloe vera and coconut oil are moisturizing; and shea butter is known to enhance shine.
