

Shoes:

Body sizes: These are the most important basic sizes. Measuring them it can be determined whether the shoe fits you.

- Inner length of feet: Step on a sheet of paper, draw around your feet and measure the length. Then you can compare it with the inner length shown at the shoes.
- Instep height: Measure straight up from the floor to the top of the instep bone. Hold the tape perpendicular to the ground. Then you can compare it with the instep height shown at the shoes.
- Ankle circumference: Wrap the tape measure horizontally around the widest part of the ankle. Then you can compare it with the ankle circumference shown at the shoes.
- Calf circumference: Measure the height of the shaft against the inside of your leg in a standing position. Place the measuring tape around the top of the previous measure. Then you compare it with the calf circumference shown at the shoes.

Shoe sizes: The real measures of the shoe.

- Inner length of sole: Measure the sole inside from the heel to the bottom.
- Outer length of sole: We put the tape on the one side of the shoe, directly at the welt from the heel to the toe cap.
- Heel height: We measure at the back of the shoe to the highest point of the heel join.
- Platform height: We measure from the sole to the welt.
- Shaft height: We measure from the heel join to the highest point of the shaft.
- Ankle circumference: We wrapped the tape around the narrowest part of the shaft.
- Shaft circumference: We wrapped the tape around the widest part of the shaft.
- Instep height: We measured it from the sole to the highest point of the vamp.

Bag

Additional measurements: The bag's real measures.

- Width: On the side of the bag measured from sewing to sewing.
- Height: Measured to the highest point of the bag (does not include the bag handle)
- Depth: On the side of the bag measured from sewing to sewing.
- Strap drop: From the highest point of the strap to the bag opening.
- Strap length: Measured on the strap from one end to the other end.

Belts

- Cord belts: Measured from one end to the other.
- Belts with buckle: Measured from where the buckle attaches to the belt to the last hole.
- Locket belt: Measured from strap to strap.

Hats

Body sizes: These are the most important basic sizes. Measuring them you can see whether the particular item fits.

- Head circumference: Wrap the tape around your head in the height of your mid forehead. The head circumference (in cm) is same as the hat size number.

Hat measures: The real measures of the hat.

- Hat's circumference: The inner part of the hat is measured.
- Height: Measured from the brim to the highest point.
