Apple Homekit Development Update

LightwaveRF plc ("LightwaveRF" or the "Company"), the creator of the LightwaveRF Smart Home Platform and products for the Internet of Things enabling households and businesses to remotely operate and control household applications including lighting, power, heating and security using smartphones, tablets, PC and MAC applications, gives the following update of Apple Homekit Development.

Further to the previous announcement on 26 June 2014 where the Company announced that following an approach by Apple, it had been accepted as an Apple MFi developer allowing it to use the Apple MFi logo to promote its products as made for iPod, iPhone and iPad. The Company is now able to update the market that Apple have agreed to assist LightwaveRF in implementing the correct protocol in LightwaveRF's Weblink in order to enable customers the benefits of using HomeKit with the Company's product range. HomeKit is a framework in iOS 8 for communicating with and controlling connected accessories in a user's home.
