Emser Tile and Century Communities Continue Exclusive Tile and Stone Partnership

Fastest-growing U.S. public builder renews supplier relationship for three-year term

LOS ANGELES – On the heels of the builder’s 78.3 percent growth in closings from 2015 to 2017, Emser Tile and Century Communities announced they will renew their exclusive tile and natural stone provider partnership. Since 2015, the relationship provides homeowners in select metropolitan locations throughout California, Colorado, Georgia, Nevada, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Washington access to the latest durable, eco-friendly tile collections at the forefront of design.

“We are proud to support Century Communities in their commitment to fulfilling customer visions across the country by building homes with lasting livability,” shared Wendy Williams, vice president, builder division for Emser Tile. “Our collections, backed by unmatched customer service, are a perfect complement to Century Communities’ home plans, and suit a variety of design styles and aesthetics.”

“Through our partnership with Emser Tile, we are able to provide a diverse product offering for our homeowners that spans a range of design preferences,” said Mark Adcock, national vice president of construction services for Century Communities. “Over the past few years, Emser Tile has been a trusted resource whose consistent support and beautiful products elevate our homes and our business.”

This month, Builder magazine named Century Communities the fastest-growing public builder of the Builder 100. The announcement follows Century Communities’ 26th-place ranking among Fortune magazine’s 2017 list of the 100 fastest-growing companies. Emser Tile comes standard in all new construction. Century Community homebuilders can select from Emser Tile’s complete portfolio – exhibiting the latest residential trends in floor, wall and surface design, including wood looks, concrete looks, three-dimensional wall tile, mixed-material mosaics and more.
