We know it's not science, but in the case of the Chinese Zodiac you could argue that, in recent years, the animals make sense.

Think back to 2020, this was the year of the rat, which was about survival. 2021 was the year of the ox – anchoring ourselves in a new reality. This could be a pretty accurate summary for what we've been living through.

And now it's the Year of the Tiger. This year will be about making big changes. It will be a year of rediscovering your enthusiasm and taking risks and adventure.

And you can look forward to us helping you with ideas and products to make sure you're more thriving than surviving in the year of the tiger.

In good health,
