Are you looking for ways to kickstart the summer fun for you and your family?

Do you want to make your waterfront property a bit more fun for the kids? If so, then you need to learn all that you can about water trampolines.

Water trampolines can offer you a plethora of benefits. They provide fun for the entire family, they're a great source of outdoor exercise, they're durable, and they mix two fun elements (water and bouncing).

See below for an in-depth guide featuring all of the information that you will need regarding water trampolines.

This will help you make an informed decision.

What Is a Water Trampoline?

No matter how old you get, there are a few fun activities that scream summer. Adults and children of all ages enjoy the fun of getting in the refreshing water, as well as getting the chance to jump on a trampoline. Why not combine the two?

Waterfront property owners are falling in love with water trampolines and water bouncers and the fun they unlock for their families. But what's the difference between the two? It has to do with how the jumping surface on these respective water products is supported.

On water trampolines, the jumping surface is supported by a steel frame and springs, very similar to a normal trampoline.

But instead of using legs for their foundation (like normal trampolines do), water trampolines rely on the air pressure in their flotation tubes.

With water bouncers, such as the Island Hopper Water Bouncer, the jumping surface is supported by a webbing/rope that connects directly to the flotation tube. The flotation tube itself resembles that of a large water raft.

Both of these are tremendous options for your family. The water trampoline, thanks to its larger size and stronger support, can hold more people at once.

Water bouncers are great for those of you that have a smaller budget, those who want something that takes up less space, and those with smaller kids.

What Are the Benefits of Water Trampolines and Water Bouncers?

Now that you understand the key difference between water trampolines and water bouncers, let's take a look at the benefits they can offer you and your family.

Outdoor Exercise

One of the most important aspects of summer is making sure that your entire family is getting ample exercise. You want to take full advantage of the warmer months by keeping them outdoors for as long as possible.

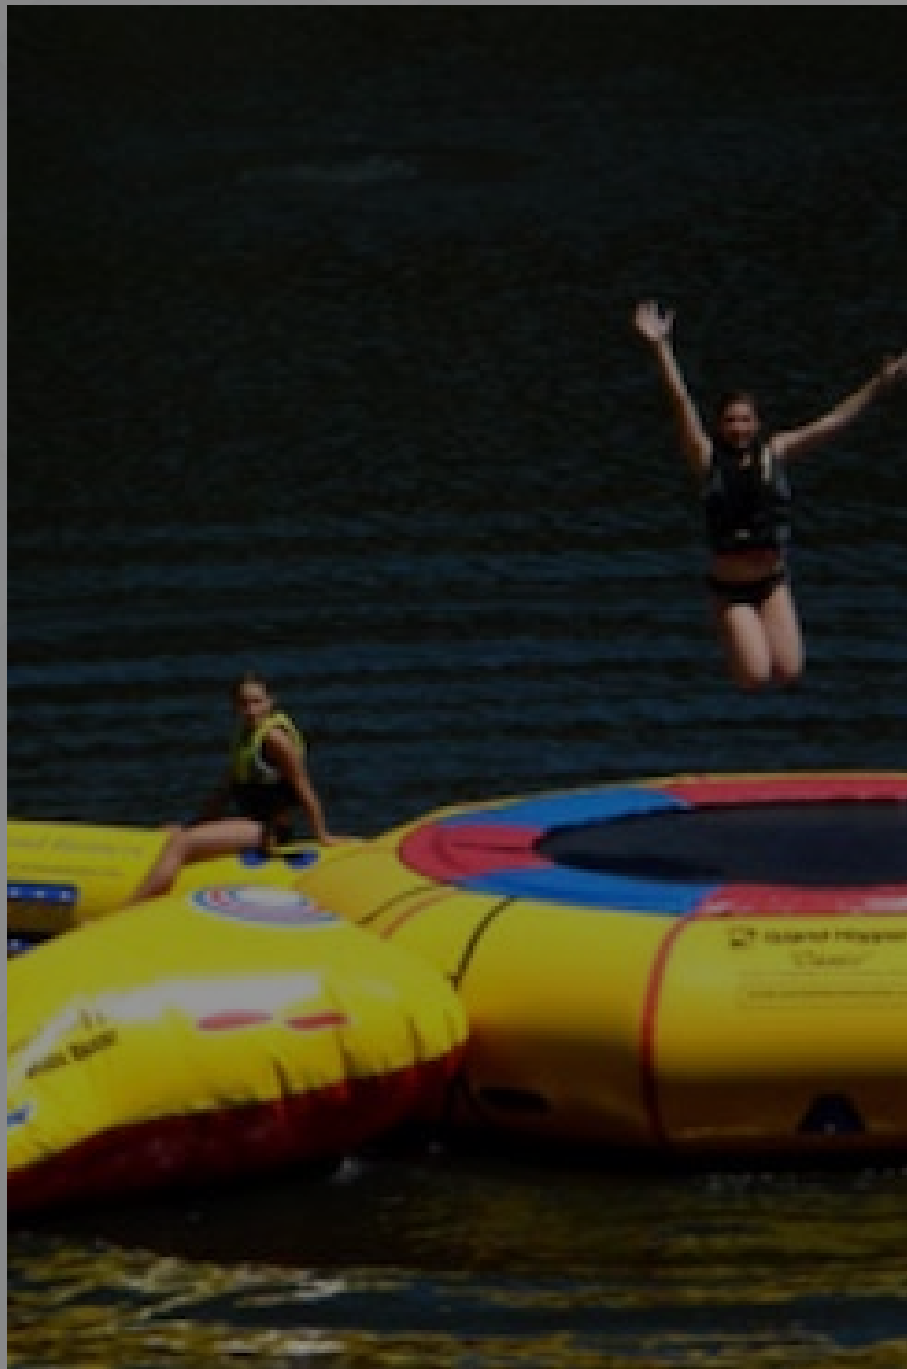

If you have a waterfront property (or other access to a body of water), then water trampolines are a tremendous way to do just that. You, your kids, and your friends will enjoy countless hours of bouncing, splashing, and playing.

Not only is exercise important, but outdoor exercise needs to be prioritized.

It can lower your heart rate, and give you more access to vitamin D (from the sun), which will boost your mood and immune system.

Your entire family will be smiling from ear to ear. Even with the strenuous exercise, you'll remain cool and refreshed, thanks to the water splashing from below the jumping surface.

Be sure to invest in a water trampoline for your family. It's going to become the summer activity that they look forward to each day.

Fun for All Ages

Parents know all too well how difficult it can be to find an activity that the entire family enjoys. Even going on a boat can cause a family debate.

Your son wants to water ski, you and/or your spouse wants to fish, your friends just want to sit on the boat and drink a cocktail while you drive them around.

The age difference can be hard to overcome. Thanks to water trampolines and water bouncers, however, that's less of a problem!

By installing a water trampoline on the water, you'll always have a source of fun for the entire family.

You and your kids will spend quality time together, bouncing around and having fun.

Source of Fun for Years to Come

Here's the best part: once you purchase a water trampoline, you'll be able to use it for many summers to follow!

The installation and break-down are super easy. Simply set it up in a safe location that's void of any rocks or other debris.

Then, when you're finished with it for the season, deflate it and store it safely until next year.

Water trampolines and water bouncers are made of high-quality materials that hold their own against the elements.

They also come with manufacturer's warranties to ensure you get years of service from them!

What Brand Should You Invest in?

As with any other product out there on the market, there are certain brands that you should prioritize when it comes to water trampolines and water bouncers.

For water trampolines, we recommend buying any size/model from either Rave or Island Hopper.

These are the two most trustworthy brands in the business.

Island Hopper water trampolines are available in 3 models: 15ft Classic, 20ft Acrobat, and 25ft Giant Jump is in a link above, and you can find Rave water trampolines through this link.

Island Hopper also has a tremendous water bouncer, for those of you that are looking to cut down the price a bit.
