Highlight: Inactivity Alert

Worried that a loved one isn't regularly using their device? Do you ever wonder what would happen if a client who lives alone is rendered unconscious and unable to call for help?

The Assisting Hands Help+Alert features an inactivity alert that notifies contacts if a device has not detected movement or activity for a designated amount of time. The time constraints are fully customizable and will immediately trigger a text message to all contacts when the wearer is inactive. This feature provides both family members and those who live alone peace of mind.
