

Congratulations! You are only one step away from completing your order for your one-of-a-kind signature necklace. All we need to get started is a handwritten copy of your name. A picture of your signature from your camera or phone will work just fine.

Tips for writing your signature

- Use a ball point pen or fine point marker with dark ink. No pencils please.
- Write your name on plain white paper or print this page and sign your name in the box.
- No spaces can be used between names — Mary Ann will be created as MaryAnn.
- Make your entire signature visible. Apply consistent pressure to all lines and curves.
- Include a print copy of your name to help ensure that we make your signature correctly.
- If your signature contains an extremely large first letter and the rest of your name is written much smaller, your pendant may look disproportionate. For a more balanced looking pendant, try to write your name with proportionate capital and lower case letters.

For signatures that have long “tails” or lines with no height, we may need to adjust the thickness of your pendant. Your signature may not be the exact size you have written, as the pendant may need to be slightly adjusted to in order for us to manufacture the best quality item for your enjoyment.

Please sign your name in the box

Please print your name on the line

Tips for photographing and uploading your signature

- Use a high resolution setting on your camera or phone. Your signature is much easier to reproduce when you provide a high resolution “Actual Size” image file. If the image you provide is not clear enough for us to use, we will contact you and ask for an additional image. This will delay completion of your item.
- Acceptable image file types are: jpeg or bmp. These are the standard file types used by most cameras and phones.
- For the best results, place your order from a desktop computer. If you photograph your signature from your tablet or phone, you must email or transfer your image file to a desktop computer and place your order from there.

 Brilliant Bijou Baby reserves the right to cancel any order for any reason.

Please refrain from derogatory references sent as signatures.

