Re: SDS for Food Grade or Agricultural Grade Products Supplied by Ingredient Supplier

To Whom It May Concern:

As Ingredient Supplier interprets the OSHA Hazardous Communication Standard, Food Grade and Agricultural Feed Grade products are exempt from GHS Labeling as described in the standard. These products are exempt because salt intended for food consumption is not hazardous. Ingredient Supplier maintains that the exemption is also qualified under 1910.1200(b)(5)(iii) of the Hazard Communication Standard.

Ingredient Supplier therefore is not currently supplying an SDS for food grade or feed grade salts.
