New Tatter-a-fact® Episode!
What's the Deal with Mineral Pigments?
Episode #47 with Lili Ma

In this new episode of Tatter-a-fact® I'm joined by the insanely talented NanoBrow artist, Lili Ma! I've been hearing the term 'Mineral Pigments' floating around the social sphere and I knew Lili was just the person to speak to about this. She's joining me all the way from Calgary, Canada via Zoom to talk about why brows should be 50% faded, why communication matters to your success, and all things Mineral Pigments!

These are topics we talk about:

Who Loves Magnums? 💖

Never tried them but want to? Go for it! 🍷

Mags deliver a ton of pigment into the skin due to the two rows of woven needles and the amount of needles. They have a nice wide spread and can pigment a larger area of skin quickly. Larger needles like the mag are the ideal choice for oily, challenging and resistant skin types.

Mags save time by getting your saturation to the levels you need quickly. Getting done quicker = less trauma to the skin!

They are super versatile and can be used packing color, blending and beautiful gradients. Circles, whip shading, pendulum, shoveling...all these techniques can be used with the mag needle. There are two kinds of mag needles, straight and curved. The curved mag is longer in the middle with shorter edges, so it doesn't have any sharp corners. The straight mag does have sharp corners since all the needles are at the same length.

To learn more about Magnums, all the different needle configurations, the movements and a ton more check out our Needle and the Prick Course on the Girlz Ink Academy. This is the ultimate needle course...priced affordably!
