

THE LEARNING RESOURCES GROUP

Online Learning with a Difference

TLRG is the only online training system and content provider that doesn't cap your enrolments or charge by seats. Each month you can enrol as many learners as you need for a fixed flat rate. You always know what you are spending and you won't be hit with unexpected bills or fees.

Content is Key

TLRG has been in the business of developing high quality learning resources for a decade. We are now able to offer those courses in an online format. Plenty of other companies can give you either the system or the courses – we can help with both.

Our range is growing all the time, and we can also author your courses for you. Contact our office and ask to speak to somebody about authoring online courses.

Starting Out or Experienced Online Course Developer

It doesn't matter if you have never used online training before. We can offer access to online training where you never need to log in to a Learning Management System. We call it the Claytons LMS – the LMS you use when you're not using an LMS. The experience for your learners is unchanged, but the administration side is taken care of by a range of systems and functions that you'll never see who only work to make your life easier. Our system will tell you when somebody has started, and when they have finished. You'll get the relevant results send straight to your email.

Want to delve deeper? We can provide you with a complete, state of the art LMS that allows you to author your own courses and manage learners, results, analytics and reporting. On top of that we can set it up for you with plenty of our VET courses that are ready to go!

TLRG has different options to suit the smallest to the largest training organisation looking to implement or improve on their online training services.
