DESIGN DISTRICT

Featuring an eclectic collection of gifts and bespoke furnishings, Anyon Atelier is the retail brainchild of interior designer Lindsay Brier. Located on Sacramento Street, the shop's clean lines and cool, laid-back California vibe complement Brier's unique finds—creating the perfect venue for fresh design. Incredible custom trays, one-of-a-kind artwork and photography, and unique hostess gifts are just a few of the distinct items on display. Be sure to stop by on a frequent basis as products are constantly on rotation. anyondesign.com

BAGGAGE CLAIM

Situated on San Francisco's bustling Geary Street, with perfect views of downtown's Union Square, is powerhouse brand Cuyana. The showroom is consistently hard at work crafting timeless, classic bags that will take you from work to weekend in one stylish fell swoop. While there, get a behind-the-scenes glimpse of products being made and monogrammed in-store. We've got our eye on one of their buttery Argentinean leather shopper totes that come in fun summer colors like soft lime and powder blue. cuyana.com

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

Neighbor owners Dana Olson and Karen Anderson knew exactly what to do when the perfect space opened up on Oakland's Piedmont Avenue. Offering vintage home décor, garden and lifestyle pieces, this shop is sure to be your new go-to source for the unexpected gift and even a little something for yourself. Best sellers include Icelandic sheepskin rugs from Black Sheep White Light and Inna's Black Mission Fig shrub; visit the shop to experience both. Ask for the store manager, Max, his passion for Neighbor is contagious. iloveneighbor.com

BEST BUDS

Step into Crimson Horticultural Rarities, a magical, one-of-a-kind flower shop located in Oakland's Temescal Alley, for all of your garden curiosities. Owners Allison Futeral and Lonna Lopez both come from gardening and floral backgrounds, so when they decided to open up Crimson it was nothing short of a blooming business—and friendship. Santa Maria Novella's potpourri, a customer favorite, fills the air as you browse wall upon wall of unique, textural plants along with handmade ceramics and delicate framed butterflies and moths. crimsonhart.com
