

How to... make a doorstep

LOTTA JANSDOTTER WANTS YOU TO BE OPEN

The doorstep is an unusual and functional way to display your special fabrics at home. It is filled with dry beans for weight. The practical handle makes it easy to move. This project will only take a couple of hours to complete if you are familiar with a sewing machine.

Step 1. Cut out all pattern pieces from the fabric

Pin the pattern pieces to the fabric, aligning the grain marked on the pattern with the grain of the fabric. Cut out a top, bottom and four sides. Measure and mark the dimensions for the handle onto the wrong side of your fabric and cut out.

Step 2. Make the handle

Turn a 1.5 cm hem along both sides of the fabric and press. Trim the corners at a 45 degree angle to reduce the bulk. With the wrong side of the handle fabric facing up fold over 2.5cm toward the centre ▶
