

CUSTOMER NEWS : DECEMBER 2022

Baches, BBQs, Beaches & Boats, here we come...

You've all worked hard again this season, so get the relief milkers in, you deserve a break and whether you are a newcomer to the industry or an old timer, well done to you all. You deserve to leave work behind and have huge amounts of fun doing whatever spins your wheels over the Christmas and New Year period.

A huge shout-out to all our customers who have kept the food chain rolling this year. And throughout all the Covid lockdowns!

Dont get me started on this lot of bungling, inept, virtue signaling, out of touch politicians. Except to say, a team of 64 and not a single one is accountable for anything. There has been an absolute minimum lack of accountability, if any, over the last 5 years. This lot and their actions remind of a classic Donald Trump quote from 2010; "I don't take responsibility at all."

What a season so far. The weather gurus are predicting a "La Nina" weather pattern, dry and drought like conditons. Not so! Many regions in the country are wanting more sun and less rain (not a usual situation at this time of year!). That reminds me, weeds are growing like crazy at the moment. So check out our herbicides on pages 7 - 8 as Glyphosate 360 plus many others are now in stock.

Cost Increases! Strewth Trev, prices on and off farm have gone up more than the Prime Minister's expense account has!! Hang in there! I have never seen raw materials, freight and packaging costs soar as they have over the last year. Many increases are well over 100% and then some. Praise the milk payout which will help keep the wolves from the door.

And please check out our closing and opening dates below so you do have enough product over Christmas and the New Year!

Enough of the day to day stuff! Time to relax and leave your cares and worries behind. Get ready to make all these New Year resolutions, yeah right!

Get ready to spin all the good yarns over some great food and a few chilled ones. Make sure the BBQ is primed and ready to go, the cricket bat and ball loaded, the sunscreen packed, and last but not least check the bach and boat are ready to be used and abused by friends and family alike.

So from all of us at Agmax, here's to a cracker Christmas, and we will see you on the other side in the New Year.

Love life and stay well!

CLOSE OFF FOR PRE-CHRISTMAS ORDERS

Due to transport company constraints, namely the clash of foodstuffs and dangerous goods, the last day to place an order to ensure on-farm delivery prior to Christmas is:

Monday 12th December for South Island orders and Wednesday 14th December for North Island orders.

Agmax closes: Thursday 22nd December 2022
And reopens: Monday 9th January 2023.

Summer Milk Quality Tips to prevent milk grades

1. INSPECTION

Do a complete plant inspection. I mean complete - allow 2 hours. Start at the clusters and work all the way through to the vat outlet. Feel and sniff every liner, staying alert for any liner or cluster that feels or smells different from the rest. Put a torch in the receiver and look through the milkline, watching particularly for any patches of soil on the upper surfaces. Open every milk-line joint. Inspect the receiver surfaces and the receiver airline. Work along the milk path, opening every component: pump, filter and cooler, and every joint or elbow between them. Check the vat delivery line, the vat surfaces, the vat inlet and outlet assemblies and the paddle. Your purpose is to visually inspect every milk contact surface and component, so that you don't have to go into summer assuming anything about the state of your plant - you'll know.

2. RUBBERWARE

Summer is a high-risk time for milk quality problems caused by knackered rubberware, because the warmer weather makes bacteria multiply faster. So while you're doing your plant inspection, take a critical look at your rubberware. You're after any rubber component that smells unpleasant, or that is cracked or grainy on the inside. Don't overlook those often forgotten items - the jumbo hoses under the pump, the cone seals in milkline joints, and the milk dropper hoses. And if your vat outlet seal is of the screw-down or screw-in type, take the rubber donut off the shaft to inspect it and look under it.

3. TEMPERATURE

Buy a thermometer and check your temperatures. Milk should be less than 18°C out of the plate cooler, and less than 7°C in the vat within three hours. Hot water should not be less than 65°C at discharge from the plant after washing. This usually means you'll need at least 80°C out of the cylinder. The temperature drop between cylinder and discharge after washing depends on your plant. Just to give you an idea, we recently measured, on a plant with 12 clusters and a 4" line, a temperature drop of 12°C after one minute of recirculation, and another 9°C after a further four minutes. Oh, and don't kid yourself that you can guess temperatures - buy a thermometer!

4. REVIEW ROUTINE

Make sure your cleaning is adequate (refer to our Milk Quality Handbook or call Agmax and we'll send you an information sheet about effective cleaning routines). And make sure you have the routine clearly written down and displayed on the Cleaning Routine Sticker (also available at Agmax), because the festive season often involves you relying on relief milkers or farm workers for your milk quality.

5. VAT SCRUB

No matter how effective you think your routine vat washing is, give the vat a manual scrub before mid-December. Vats are the source of a lot of grades, particularly thermoduric grades, in summer. The villain is protein deposits, and you might be unaware of your having this problem if you only inspect your vat when it's wet, or if you're on night collection. The safest approach is to make sure vat protein doesn't catch you out, by doing a manual scrub with strong chlorinated alkali before the hot weather.

That's it! Now you can concentrate on the Joys of Summer - hangovers, freeloading relatives scoffing all your barbeque steak (you get one burnt sausage), screaming kids, and cooling down in the scorching midday heat.

Herd Over The Fenceline

The last laugh...

The Irish Prostitute

An Irish daughter had not been home for over 5 years. Upon her return, her father cussed her, "Where have ye been all this time? Why did ye not write to us, not even a line? Why didn't ye call? Can ye not understand what ye put ye old Mum through?"

The girl, crying, replied, "Sniff, sniff Dad..... I became a prostitute."

"Ye what??!! Out of here, ye shameless harlot! Sinner! You're a disgrace to this family."

"Ok Dad As ye wish. I just came back to give Mum this luxurious coat, title deed to a ten-bedroom mansion, plus a savings certificate for $5 million... For me little brother, this gold Rolex. And for ye, Daddy, the sparkling new Mercedes limited edition convertible that's parked outside, plus a membership in the country club..."
....(takes a breath)..... "And an invitation for ye all to spend New Year's Eve on board me new yacht in the Riviera, and"

"Now what was it ye said ye had become?" Says Dad. Girl, crying again, "Sniff, sniff a prostitute Dad!sniff, sniff."

"Dear Lord, ye scared me half to death girl! I thought ye said a Protestant. Come here and give your old Dad a hug!"

All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth...

When's Christmas lunch?
