STYLE SEQUEL

How do some of the city's most stylish women keep their closets fresh and updated? Consignment, that's how. The buying and selling of pre-loved fashions and accessories has often been a well-kept secret, but entrepreneurs Mitch and Chrissy Sayre were determined to bring it out of the shadows and into the light of luxe. With their Dallas boutique, To Be Continued, the husband-and-wife duo offers a decadent retail experience. Buyers will appreciate a range of curated merchandise from brands like Balenciaga, Carolina Herrera, Alexander McQueen, Chanel and Christian Louboutin, all sourced from exclusive closets around the world. Sellers enjoy a quick return on their treasures, and the boutique will even come to Fort Worth for in-home appraisals and pick-ups of select brands. 5600 W. Lovers Lane, Dallas, 214-431-4301, www.tbcconsignment.com.

FASHION WEEK, THIS WEEK

Fashion shows for fall/winter are underway – last month was New York, London and Milan; this month, Paris – and if you see something you like, you may be able to act on that impulse. It used to be that the clothes coming down the runways were for the upcoming season, meaning you couldn't buy what you saw for five or six months. This season, several designers responded to the market's obsession with instant access, offering fresh-from-the-runway styles for sale moments after their
