ARTWORK GUIDELINES

1. PROVIDE YOUR FILES

If you are providing a logo or graphics we typically require vector format to ensure a high quality print. If you only have photographic/raster images we would need them at a minimum quality of 300dpi (dots per inch).

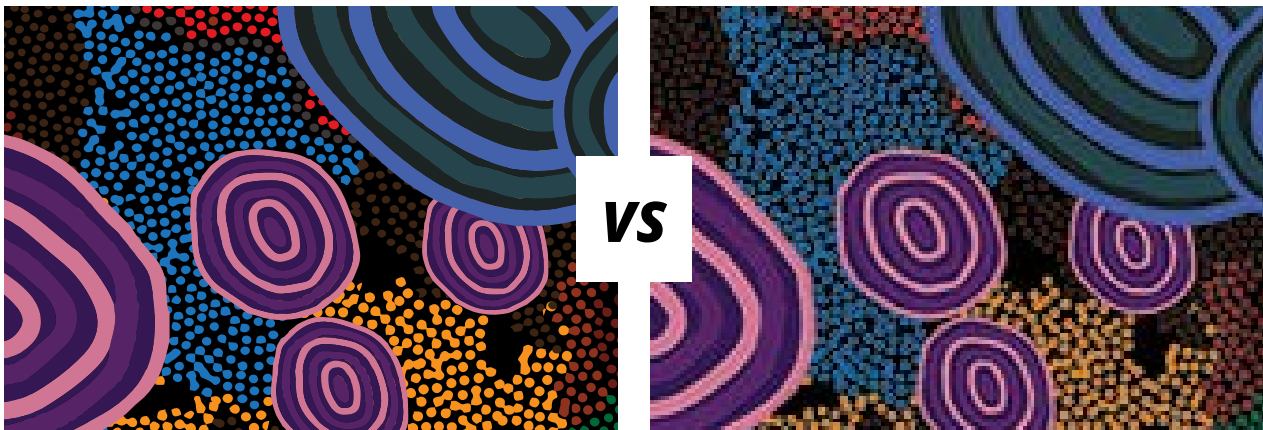

PLEASE NOTE: If you require changes to be made to your artwork we will require files to be supplied as vector. Additional charges apply to format raster images into vector depending on complexity of artwork.

2. OUTLINE FONTS

To avoid any changes to your font, please ensure all text with your vector artwork or logo has been outlined.

3. YOUR CORPORATE COLOURS

For colour matching we strongly suggest you supply us with a physical example of the colour to match. Alternatively if you know your company Pantone colours please supply those. We use PMS (Pantone Matching System) colours as a guide only.

VECTOR

FONTS, LOGOS & GRAPHICS

.AI, .CDR, .PDF, .EPS

Commonly created by Adobe Illustrator and Corel Draw, vector graphics can be scaled to any size without distorting or losing its quality. It is the preferred method of creating logos and artwork for printing worldwide.

PLEASE NOTE: The typical file formats listed above can contain both vector and raster artwork depending on how and where it was created. Please ask us if you are unsure whether your artwork is a true vector file.

RASTER

BITMAP PHOTOGRAPHS

.JPEG/.JPG, .TIFF, .PSD,
.BMP, .PNG, .GIF

Raster (or Bitmap) images are the most common form of images found on your computer and online. They are made up of smaller square dots called pixels, which make up the measurement (or resolution). As such, this can cause the image to look distorted or blurry when scaled larger than its intended size. Online images are usually 72dpi but for print quality the image must be 300dpi.
