8 of the best eco-friendly cleaning products to use

Not all "eco-friendly" home cleaning products are created equal.

APR 19, 2021 10:00PM

Sustainable and eco-friendly living is increasingly growing in popularity as more and more of us become conscious of our impact on the environment. One of the easiest ways to live green is by using environmentally friendly cleaning products in the home, so here we share 10 of the best eco-friendly cleaning products on the market and what you need to know.

In recent years we've seen a shift away from the once-common chemical-laden household cleaners and the reshaping of the industry in favour of products that are kinder to people and the environment. As such, the allure of "green" cleaning products and natural cleaning solutions is stronger than ever.

Sadly, just because cleaning products have the words "all natural" or "green" on the packaging, it doesn't always mean these products are completely natural or eco-friendly.

So, how do you tell if a brand is legitimately eco-friendly or just using clever marketing tools to capitalise on our desire to fill our homes with ecoconscious cleaners? These are the top things to look out for...

homes

KOALA ECO

Engaging a pharmaceutical and naturopathic counsel to investigate Australia's potent flora, Koala Eco has created a range cleaning products that are affordable, powerful and natural, using essential oils and ingredients derived from plants such as, eucalyptus, rosemary, lemon myrtle and peppermint.

Not only do these products work, they smell absolutely amazing, which is what you want from a clean home. All of Koala Eco's packaging is made from 100% post-consumer recycled bottles.

Visit Koala Eco.