

Jimmy's Hill Barrel Aged Pinot Gris

---

Fermented and gently aged on lees in large format old French oak barrels, this is a standout wine displaying elegant, bright, full fruit character and silky texture.

This is a limited-edition barrel release crafted to delight. A full and elegant gris with pear, stone fruit, and spice aromas flowing seamlessly onto a palate of pear, nectarine, and quince, with a clean silky finish from gentle aging in French Oak. Perfect on its own, or enjoyed with seafood, pasta, artisan cheese, and perfect with spicy dishes.

Hand-picked late March 2023
Partial wild ferment in barrel
Aged on lees 9 months in large-format old French oak 14.0% abv
Boutique - 60 cases made fruity

pear | nectarine |
quince

medium bodied cellar 5 years

Jimmy's Hill The Story

---

Rising a commanding 1002 ft, Jimmy's Hill is Bangor's highest point and one of Tasmania's convict era semaphore stations. With a simple hut for shelter, Jimmy, the rugged bushman who called the remote outpost home, maintained a vigilant eye on adjacent stations, standing by to relay messages.

Back in the early days of the colony there was a network of semaphore stations around both the Forestier and Tasman Peninsulas, and between Port Arthur and Hobart Town. They were used for relaying messages around the colony (the email/text messaging system of the day), and they could relay a message from Port Arthur to Hobart Town in just 15 minutes. Jimmy ran the semaphore station here at Bangor, so the hill became locally known as Jimmy's Hill, as it is still known today.

