

AMY & ARON'S REAL LIFE REVIEWS

BEAUTY

Spray Away by Nail Aid Available at Walmart

Amy Groves 0 Comments

Do you fix your own nails? I have seen so many really cool colors and styles when it comes to mani and pedi fashion lately. I am not usually the one to do my nails frequently. I would love to but I'm not that great at it and I always end up staining the skin around my nails. Definitely not a professional look. There must be an easier way, right?

I love pampering myself and being able to do it without stress. Have you ever tried to do something so awesome for yourself and then end up messing it up. The stress of the clean up outweighs the attempt to even try more times than not. That's why I love Nail Aid's Spray Away.

What is your biggest fight in beauty regimens? For me, it's my nails. I am right handed so my left hand always looks like a 3-year-old painted it. I would love to have the patience and the coordination to do the amazing stuff I see on Pinterest. Unfortunately, I am a single colored 2 coats kind of girl. Anything more than that just takes too much time.

Through trial and error, I have figured out a plan. If I can get all of my house and daily chores done early enough, I can paint my nails so they don't chip doing dishes or a shower.

No matter what it looks like, the paint and glitter have to come off before the next botch job goes on. So, another question. What method do you use to take it off?

I was used to the liquid and a cotton ball for a long time. Then I found the sponge in a jar, that was an amazing innovation. Unless you use any bright colors. Then it stains your fingertips that color of nail polish you've been trying to get rid of.

Both of those work. They do their job of getting the nail polish off of your fingers. But, the one thing they are both capable of, spilling.

Are you ready to have your mind blown? Have you heard of SPRAY nail polish remover? I hadn't at all until I had the opportunity to review Spray Away by Nail Aid.

How it works

Spray Away

This is so easy to use. The bottle looks like a bottle of spray on sunblock. It has a twist lock top so there is no spillage or wasteful use.

Spray it on a cotton ball and let it soak in, wipe away the paint. Really, that easy. No colored fingertips and most importantly, no dried out or cracked cuticles. It works so fast that I had all of the nail polish off of my toes in no time at all. You can see it in the video below.

I don't know how many others have experienced cracked dry cuticles but it's not nice. It burns when it's cold outside, it burns when it gets hand soap or lotion on it, what it feels like is paper cuts right on the fingers. I can handle pain, but paper cuts are crippling to me. I want to ball up my fist into my other hand and run in place trying not to pee. Thinking about it, that's a pretty accurate description.

It's so easy to use and it doesn't take a long time to wipe off. No second time soaking per nail like with traditional methods. This really is a neat product to use. The cap locks so it's safe to use for the whole family. Even the pets. Even smart and curious little stinkers like ours can't use it :)

I recommend this product to anyone that likes doing their nails. It's easy, cost-effective and so much less messy than traditional liquid.

Nail-Aid ~ Facebook ~ Twitter ~ Youtube ~ Instagram ~

I received this for free to facilitate this review. If you have any questions please feel free to email us directly at grovesamy81@gmail.com or amy@aarlreviews.com

Tags: beauty, Christmas, Health, review

Share This Post:

SEARCH THIS BLOG

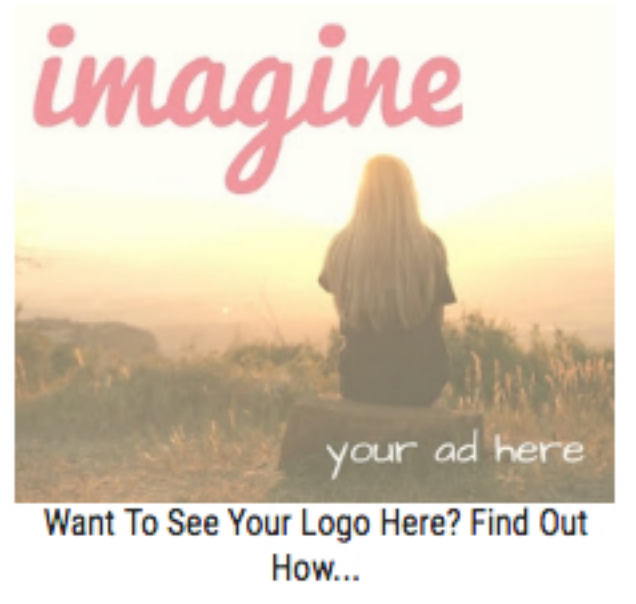

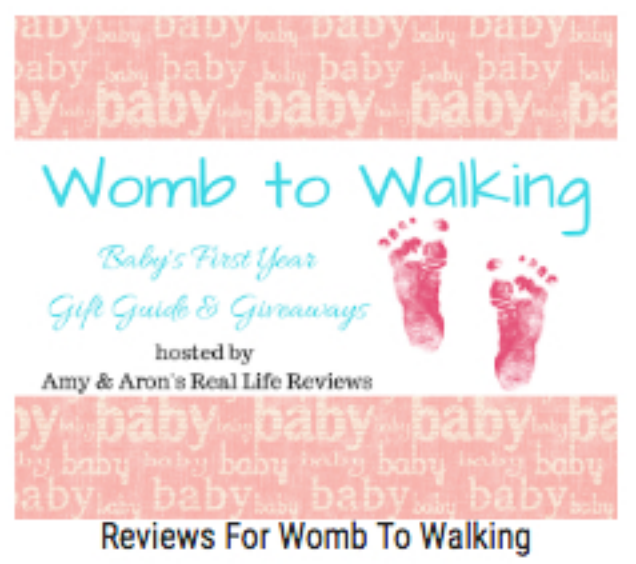

Search

ABOUT ME

Amy

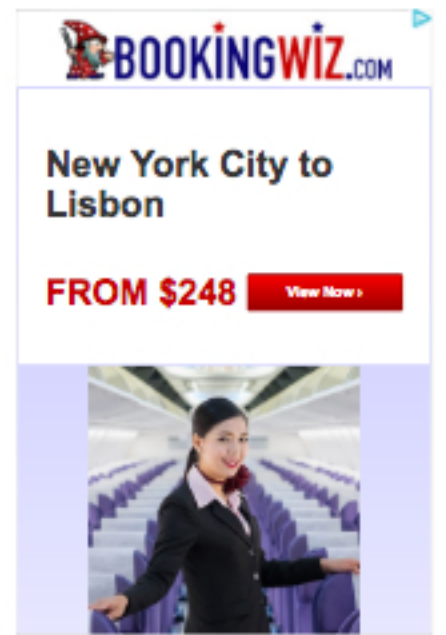

I'm Amy, he's Aron, and we're all about family life. We have 4 kids, 3 dogs, and 2 cats - and love the craziness and reality of it all.

INSTAGRAM

WEBSTA WIDGETS

About author: Amy Groves

Amy is the glue that holds everything together. Family is the most important thing to her and she's all about keeping the magic alive for her kids. She's a sarcastic 80s kid that loves to laugh, and she isn't afraid to call her sister every time her fur babies do something silly.