Joel and Nicole: Marriage Falls Apart

"Leo's been distancing himself from Nina," says a source close to the actor.

The Oscar winner, 42, reportedly got cozy with lingerie model Paige Watkins on Dec. 22 at the LA club 1 OAK before heading back to his home with her and a group of friends. "Leo is loving partying with his crew again," adds the source. "He tends to do this when he loses interest in a girlfriend. His relationship with Nina will likely just fade out."

heavy to barely seeing each other," a source close to the actor tells In Touch. "Leo's been hanging out with other girls and spending a lot of time with his newly single pal Tobey Maguire."

"The party started at 9 p.m., and by 11 p.m. it had basically cleared out," says a partygoer.

CHRISTINA'S BIRTHDAY FLOP

Christina Aguilera's ego has been "Hurt." The pop star recently threw herself a 36th birthday party and touted the $160,000 Christmas Candy Land-themed bash as one of the year's most fun-filled extravaganzas. "But it turned out to be a total flop," a partygoer tells In Touch. "She invited a ton of A-listers, but very few showed up. The ones that did, like Kylie Jenner, made a quick appearance and left." Despite being disappointed, Xtina, who decked out her Beverly Hills mansion with inflatable slides, a Hello Kitty bounce house, a light-up dance floor and a $10,000 entryway rug (which had to be removed after her dog pooped on it!), tried to play it cool. She had six outfit changes (one outfit is pictured above) "and walked around posing like she was on a runway," adds the partygoer. "She really wanted this party to be amazing, but it just wasn't happening."
