Set of 8 1960's Italian 107 Dining Chairs by Gianfranco
Frattini for Cassina

Specification sheet

DESCRIPTION

The model 107 chairs designed by Gianfranco Frattini for Cassina in the 1960s are highly regarded for their elegant and understated design. These collectable dining chairs are characterised by their clean lines and use of high-quality wood. The backrest of the chair features two curved panels that style. The 107 chairs are considered a classic example of Italian mid-century modern design. This 8 Italian dining chair set was expertly restored by our gallery with new bright green upholstery and dark-tinted wood refinishing. The 107 model is known for being not only stylish but also comfortable making them an ideal choice for dining or as occasional seating in a lounge or lounge area. Gianfranco Frattini was a celebrated Italian mid-century designer known for his exceptional talent in fusing form and function. Cassina, the manufacturing company behind these chairs, is renowned for its exquisite craftsmanship and dedication to producing iconic pieces of furniture that stand the test of time.
