Comment This wine has a classic, delicate Pinot colour, bright and transparent, suggesting a wine of finesse and gentle power. It opens up with a range of subtle floral nuances, red raspberry and lavender, also notes of spice, green tea and an earthy minerality.

The palate is again much more terroir than fruit-driven with fine tannins supporting the well-detailed flavours that display excellent length on the firm, focused and youthfully austere finish, that is both, harmonious and precise.

As is typical for the Fromm Vineyard Pinot, this wine does not try to impress at first sight, particularly when young, and it is in many ways more reminiscent to what we expect from some parts of Burgundy.
