Comment A dry Pinot Gris that combines attractive charm with textural complexity. Fermented in aged French oak barrels using wild yeast and then lees stirred. It opens with delicate florals, subtle honeycomb and baked pears which expands into a savouriness of toasted almonds and brioche. The palate is rich and mouthfilling with fine, persistent structure leading into a long finish bound by cleansing minerality.

Short description An attractive and textural Pinot Gris with good palate weight, combining pear, almond and floral aromas with clean minerality. (November 2012)
