

Inclusive Playroom

Louise
KOOL & GALT

Holland Bloorview Kids Rehabilitation Hospital, playroom space.

Needs: a space that's easily adaptable to the changing needs of their population while still being engaging and inviting for a variety of play, accommodating mobility aids.

A long, rectangular room, Roomscapes panels connected to shelves delineate play zones. Transparent panels allow for maximum visibility and easy supervision. Sweep shelves and curved arches of the panels soften the space, making it more inviting.

An inviting mirror backing and a canopy turns a practical display shelf into an inviting play area.

Community Playthings shelves have uniquely designed wheels on kick-plates that are easy to move to redefine a space but once in place, with the wheels up, they are a solid anchor for Roomscapes' posts and panels.

Legs used on both, Classroom and MultiTables are uniquely adaptable to changing needs. Removable without tools, they come with quick height adjustable legs. An adult can set heights to accommodate children at different heights: sitting, in a standup walker, or a power wheelchair.
