Hi, my name is Becky. I am a deputy sheriff and school resource officer.
I love teaching children just like you the importance of being safe while they are playing and learning at school.

Sometimes it is hard to understand why you have to practice drills and follow school rules, but being prepared is an important part of keeping your school safe. Your teachers, school officer, classmates, and even YOU play an important role in ensuring that your school is a place where you can do all of the things that you love to do! By working together and following the rules, we can accomplish so much!

Stay safe,
Deputy Becky Coyle

Why are there officers that work here in our schools?
Are they here to arrest us for breaking the rules?
NO! They're here to protect us and teach safety, too.
When we listen to them, we'll know just what to do!

On a regular school day, while Ben was in class, someone new caught his eye in the door as they passed.
“Hey Katie! Look quick! I can’t believe this at all!
I think a policewoman just walked down the hall!”
