HOW DO I CLEAN MY DRY BRUSH?

You will need to clean your dry brush every couple of weeks (steps below). You should replace your dry brush every 2-3 months, as dead skin cells will build up. Regularly cleaning will make it last longer, but the bristles will naturally soften and fall out.

- Add water to a shallow bowl.
- Add some natural soap or tea tree oil drops into the water.
- Rub the brush into the water and soap, but avoid getting the wooden handle wet.
- After this, use another bowl with just water where you can rinse the bristles.
- Let the dry brush hang to dry completely.

02

CAN I USE A DRY BRUSH WHILE PREGNANT?

Please consult your doctor for the best advice on pregnancy. From our experience, it's highly recommended to avoid your tummy, as during pregnancy you are looking to moisturize the skin as it expands. Dry brushing would exfoliate and is likely to cause irritation on the tummy. However, dry brushing other areas of your body is recommended to increase circulation. Again, listen to your body as during pregnancy you may have extra sensitive skin and dry brushing won't be encouraged.
